Description

Open copy, never played. Shrink-wrap removed to verify condition after a long time in storage. Overall condition is excellent, given the age, counters remain unpunched (although the odd small section may have come loose). Any loose counters will be bagged. The game booklets have rusty staples and remain perfectly legible. Map/Charts are also excellent. Very light shelf-wear to the game box.

Carrier War is a complete simulation of military operations in the Pacific Theater from December 1941 to April 1944. Players have supreme command of the land, air and naval forces of either Imperial Japan or the United States and her allies. The scale of the game is strategic with operational overtones. The game is designed for two players, but can be played solitaire or by teams of gamers.
