Description

Open Copy, slightly shop-spoiled (some minor foxing to the inside of the base/card insert/plus a touch of staple rust to the rules). Part-Punched. (only 8 counters punched).

The game design focuses on the battlefield tactics and Napoleon's powerful personality. Through political and military cunning, Napoleon swept France to super-power status. In previous Field Commander games, supply was a primary concern. As the Emperor himself said, "An army travels on its stomach." In this game, Napoleon's achievements and public adulation drive all facets of game play. Be successful, gain the support of your troops and your countrymen, and you can achieve anything!

The game spans all of Napoleon's campaigns from Italy in 1796 to Waterloo in 1815.

Success depends on the vital balance between strategic and tactical focus. You must move your forces across the maps to achieve your strategic goals, but you must also out-think your opponents on the battlefield.

You can play each campaign as a stand-alone game, or as part of a linked series of games.

The 11 Campaigns include:

- First Coalition 1796
- Egypt 1798
- Second Coalition 1800
- Third Coalition 1805
- Fourth Coalition 1806
- Spain 1807
- Fifth Coalition 1809
- Russia 1812
- Confederation of the Rhine 1813
- France Invaded 1814
- 100 Days 1815

Each campaign has its own unique set of force counters that accurately detail the divisions and corps that participated in the campaign.

The force counters are a rectangular 0.625" by 1.25". This allows the use of Line and Column Formation tactics in battle! Each Force has a troop quality: Elite, Veteran, Line, Poor Line, or Conscript.

You command the French forces in your bid for world domination!

You command your forces forward across the continents! You command your forces across the battlefields of Europe, Asia, and Africa!

When you return, covered in glory and riches, it is you the citizens of France will be cheering!
