Into a fortress abandoned.

The Reds rise.

Machineguns, wire, tanks in the woods.

The familiar now alien.

The easy now hard.

Gomel, Belarus, August 19, 1941:

A General to save his army.

At the height of the battle:

A Maxim maximal.

Hitler's bodyguard in the front.

Red Guards on the retreat.

Heavy cats against nimble T-34s.

In the Woods, in the Villages.

Much had the Red Army learned.

Playing on the minds.

Bombard into submission.

Take Gurkhas to their graves.

FrF66 Between the Devil and the Deep Blue Sea

In the most brutal of wars.

Backs to the Baltic Sea.

Through biting snowstorms.

Enemy lines must be broken through.

Liebstadt must be taken.

FrF67 Collecchio

Collecchio, Italy, April 26, 1945:

An army in chaotic retreat.

General Fretter-Pico, victor of Sevastopol.

On the run, hurry to the North.

A quiet town by the river.

Armored cars clash.

The familiar bark of an 88,

brings a moment of hesitation.

The trap remains shut.

FrF68 A Hasty Farewell

Villa del Nevoso, Italy, April 28, 1945:

In land fought over for centuries.

British swords in Slavic hands.

Trained by the enemy's enemy.

Hunting the Hunters.

Four-barreled, fire-spitting ingenuity of desperation.

No quarter is asked, nor is quarter given.

A hasty farewell.

Trieste by nightfall.
