

The Eagles of the Danube

March 1809, for months Austria has been arming itself to take its revenge on Austerlitz. The major foreign powers have refused to follow and so Austria must go to war alone.

Rating: Not Rated Yet

Price

Price £13.95

Ask a question about this product

Manufacturer HISTOIRE & COLLECTIONS

Description

Boardgames

- Heroes of Black Reach
- Smolensk
- Stalingrad: Inferno on the Volga
- 1066
- Black Cavalry Normandie
- Apocalypse in the East
- Albuerra

Scenarios

- Advanced Squad Leader
- Memory 44

Miniatures

- De l'or pour les braves
- Cruel Sea
- Bataille Empire
- Pacte de Varsovie vs OTAN
- Les batailles d'avril 1809
- Les jeux de David Mersey chez Osprey

Technic

- Les décors désert (suite)

Hobby

- Ecole de Guerre et Serious Games
- Les jeux de rôles à thème historique

Art of War

- Campagne des 5 jours 1809

Wargame with sie-cut counters

The Eagles of the Danube

March 1809, for months Austria has been arming itself to take its revenge on Austerlitz. The major foreign powers have refused to follow and so Austria must go to war alone. The time is propitious because the Great Army is at the other end of Europe, in Spain, facing a combative people, and Austria hopes that the German peoples will rise up against France as well. On March 30, its armies, led by the Archduke Charles, invade Bavaria with no declaration of war in hopes of surprising the French army dispersed in Germany before their reinforcements can arrive. Will it be able to hold out until the arrival of the Emperor or will the Archduke push it back north of the Danube in disorder? Complexity : 5/10

- Duration : 1 hour
- One unit : 1 division
- 1 strength step : approximately 2 500 men
- Modules : 1 tactical module
- 1 game turn : 2 days