

Veracruz: U.S. Invasion of Mexico 1847 (GAME ONLY)

Game Only

Good condition, punched copy.

Simulation: Veracruz 1847

Veracruz is an operational simulation of General Winfield Scott's Mexican campaign, which took place between March and September

Rating: Not Rated Yet

Price

Price £17.95

Ask a question about this product

Manufacturer STRATEGY & TACTICS

Description

Game Only

Good condition, punched copy.

Simulation: Veracruz 1847

Veracruz is an operational simulation of General Winfield Scott's Mexican campaign, which took place between March and September 1847. The invasion was an American effort to end the Mexican War.

The map depicts central Mexico down to Mexico City, the target of the American player. Players have to deal with supply and a complex set of morale rules. Counters represent basic units, horses, naval units, and leaders. Other counters indicate supply, unit effectiveness, entrenchments, cities etc. Med complex, 200 counters, 2 players, 2 hours.